The Mission

We give students the skills they need to succeed in the era of exponential change.

Artificial Intelligence and automation are projected to disrupt and diminish a majority of job markets.

According to the World Economic Forum, the skills losing value in the global economy are those not linked to innovation and creativity.

To prepare for the future, we need to prepare our youth to participate in innovative teams that can lead us into the unforeseeable.

This is why ÜKÜ's summer camps revolve around leadership training, creativity and critical thinking.

ÜKÜ's students are prepared to participate in the narrative of our approaching future.

"Our future depends on the quality of our education today."

- Arnold Schwarzenegger, former governor of California
